7 Magical Tools in Coaching

Some leaders and managers who are star performers in other areas fail miserably when it comes to coaching employees. Practice using these 7 magical tools to be an effective coach. Remember them as tools you can buy in the store.

- ★ Spirit level - Gather all facts to identify the problem and form a balanced opinion; stay calm.
- ★ Cleaning brush - Clear your mind from distractions and prepare yourself and the employee for the conversation.
- ★ Hammer - Hit the nail on the head and discuss directly the discrepancy between expectations and performance.
- ★ Can Opener - Ask open-ended questions to get employee input; practice active listening skills.
- ★ Stud finder - Identify hidden thoughts from employee's voice and body language.
- ★ Flashlight - Enlighten and empower; agree on goals and guide (not instruct) the employee in how to achieve them.
- ★ "Kudos" granola bar - Give recognition for performance improvement.
